

Beyond Tradition: Real Life Writing Projects

Based on the SCANS skills and competencies and a school-to-career philosophy, this program offers very practical methods for teaching the type of writing required in the world of work. Students are introduced to a real-world project and work in teams to create brochures, posters, manuals, directories, blueprints, etc. based on the project chosen. Community and business involvement is encouraged as guest speakers and field trips are arranged that are related to the project. We also include forms and strategies for creating student journals that will help students develop the reading, writing, personal, team, and time management skills that the workplace requires.

22-007 Beyond Tradition: $99.95
Real Life Writing Projects

School-To-Career!

EMS

Medical emergencies happen everyday. Students need to be prepared to understand when EMS services should be requested, how to speak on the phone when requesting service, and the type of information these operators need. They must also understand the type of medical requests that should not be directed to EMS, and what resources are available when medical situations arise that are not classified as emergencies. Students will create a promotional campaign that will address this issue in their communities.

Community Connections:
EMS personnel
public health officials

Getting Started

All About Our Project:

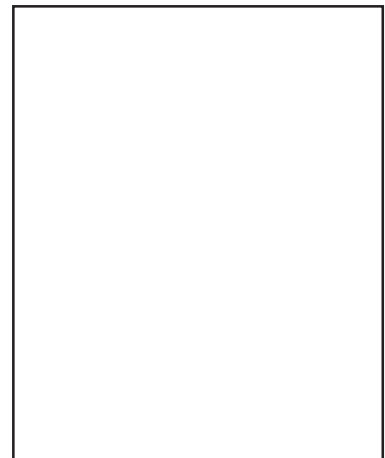

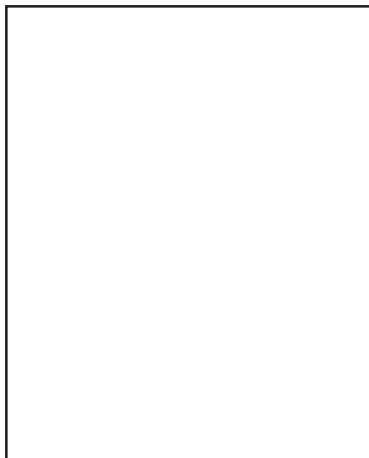

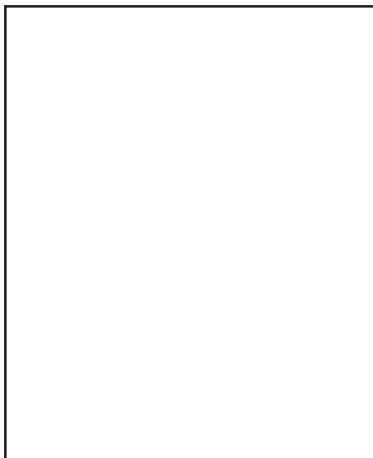

Basic Information:

About The Job We Will Do:

The Problem We Need To Solve Is:

The Project We Will Create:

Career Connections/Guest Speaker Opportunities

Reading And Writing Across The Curriculum

The reading that this unit requires includes:

The reading materials I will need to locate and use:
(Books, magazines, newspapers, etc.)

The writing we will need to do:

Resources to help for the writing required:

Multimedia Resources available:

